

ARIA HEALTH'S HIGH-RISK BREAST CANCER PROGRAM

Are You Genetically at Greater Risk for Breast Cancer?

For some women, the possibility of developing breast cancer might be higher because of a specific genetic mutation or family history. These “high-risk” women can benefit from a specialized screening process and close monitoring to diagnose and treat breast cancer early.

Aria's High-Risk Breast Cancer Program is dedicated to helping women in our communities assess their risk and providing them the information they need to reduce a potential health threat. Our team uses state-of-the-art clinical and genetic testing methods to provide the most accurate analysis possible.

Our Surgeons:

Jack Sariego, MD, FACS

*Medical Director,
Breast Health
Program and Perioperative
Services*

Ronit Sugar, MD, FACS

Board-Certified Breast Surgeon

Aria's High-Risk Breast Cancer Program is one of the most unique and comprehensive in the region.

Our services include:

- Risk evaluation
- Clinical breast exam and screening
- Genetic counseling and education
- Monitoring and prevention strategies

If you're concerned about your breast cancer risk and would like more information, contact us at 215 612 4884.

ARIAHEALTH.ORG

